

Call for Interview Volunteers

Heriot-Watt University School of Social Sciences is looking for volunteers to participate in an interview for our project titled “Assessing UK Sustainable Aviation Biofuel Production Technologies”. This project is a part of a larger project that aims to produce low carbon jet fuels through integration of novel technologies for co-valorisation of CO₂ and biomass (EP/N009924/1) <https://lcjf.hw.ac.uk/>.

The key objectives of the interview are to gather views and opinions from various stakeholders on UK aviation biofuel sector: 1) what are the key barriers and opportunities for commercial development, deployment and consumption of sustainable aviation fuels? 2) what are the key criteria that one needs to consider when evaluate/prioritise the competing conversion pathways for specific stakeholders? 3) how policy can be shaped to foster this new industry?

The study will take approximately 60 minutes. In situations where interviewee is unable to meet, we can arrange a Skype call at your convenient time.
